AMX's Linux Digital Signage Solution

Written by Bob Snyder
19. 06. 2010

At InfoComm, AMX debuted a LINUX-based digital signage player, called the IS-SPX-1000, that's small enough to mount anywhere (1" x 6" x 3").

It manages originally-created content, RSS feeds, all sorts of graphics file formats, MPEG or H.264 video and outputs all on either VGA or HDMI ports.

Watch the rAVe NOW Video from InfoComm

Go AMX IS-SPX-1000